FACULTY

PRINCIPAL GEORGE W. COX, JR.

VICE-PRINCIPAL, DR. ROSALINE M. EDWARDS

It was not just the smile with which he greeted us as we passed him in the halls. His friendliness went much deeper than that. He was always willing to take time from his busy schedule to discuss with us problems or future plans, all of which proved he was genuinely interested in each of us. Mr. Cox made our year at George Mason more pleasant and profitable with his guidance and leadership.

Although Dr. Edwards sometimes had the very unpleasant duty of disciplining us whenever we needed it, we came to appreciate her as a practical psychologist who made us recognize our errors and determine to correct them.

Social Studies

Curriculum changes at George Mason are paced to keep up with our changing, forward-moving society. Recent developments in educational research are also reflected in our academic life.

Mr. James McBlair taught both of the two major course innovations in the social studies cirriculum. The first, an extension of senior level Government concentrated on history's most important political ideas from Plato's REPUBLIC to the U. S. Constitution and applied them in analyzing current events in hopes of having the students develop some meaningful political economic, cultural, military, scientific, social, philosophical views. English classes under Mrs. Martha Delaney correlated their literature assignments with Mr. McBlair's Government assignments.

The second new course, an elective open to juniors and seniors, was labeled U. S. and World Affairs. It was an intensive and fast-moving survey of three important blocs of civilization, the U. S. S. R., Africa and Latin America. Emphasizing much newspaper reading, the course aimed at helping students comprehend the three societies from the U. S. point of view. According to one map-weary but map-proud senior, "It was a great success. Now I'm an expert on cartography and Russian reindeer ..."

U. S. and Virginia History: "Howe are you, Mr. Holton?"

Miss Carrington's Social Studies Class performs at the Junior High Thanksgiving assembly: "It's a note. She says the audience is louder than we are."

Dramatics seemed to be a consuming interest of English teachers this year. Mrs. Moyka took her sophomore students to see a production of CORIOLANUS at Catholic University. Several senior teachers took advantage of the Old Vic's tour at the National Theater and the school's recordings of MACBETH and HAMLET. It was quite a season for Shakespeare. Grammar, composition and spelling held their own as usual.

Publications were brought under the direction of the English Department and scheduled on class time. Although creative genius can not always be summoned on schedule, staffs of MUSTANG, TEMPO and LASSO tried to get their work accomplished between 2 and 3 p. m. each afternoon.

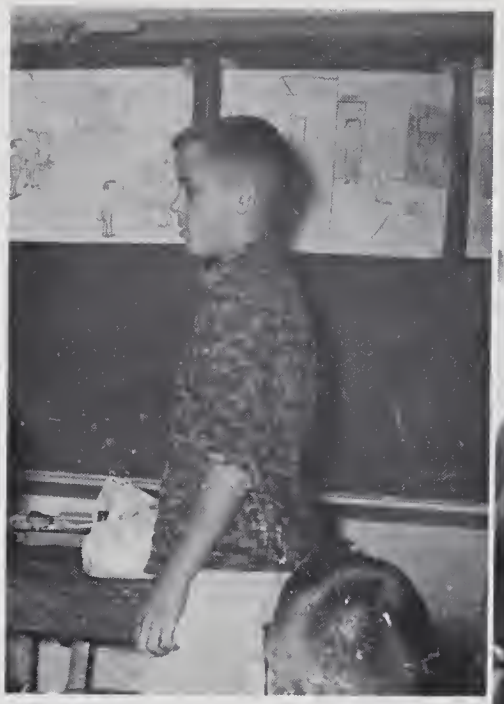
Language, Math

The latest approach to foreign language teaching as developed by lingual scientists was used by Mrs. Costa and Mr. Phillips in their classes this year. All the Spanish students were introduced to the "audio-lingual" or "oral-aural" method, which concentrates on spoken words and continual repetition. No textbooks or any form of written symbols were allowed in the classrooms. Much use was made of the language laboratory installed at George Mason in 1960.

Using a trial textbook prepared by the School of Mathematics Study Group of Yale University, Mrs. Wheeler in her seventh grade "new math" class placed emphasis on how and why instead of memorized rules. The seventh graders found their special course challenging. "We don't just sit down and add up; now we learn the reasons. It's fun." The Math Department is also formulating a course for the accelerated juniors to take next year; they have already worked through Algebra I, II, III, Trig. and Solid Geometry. Their new challenge will probably be Calculus and Analytic Geometry.

The Science Department used much current research material to supplement the science text's presentation. Individual student research was encouraged and full use was made of the local scientists as guest speakers and the near-by points of scientific interest for field trips.



Gail Heeter seems to be enjoying her lab period in Biology. The worm doesn't look too happy, though.

Physics students Paul Becker and Jim Ellmore play drinking game called Phys-O, not to be confused with other better known Biology-type games.

Several new units were introduced in the girls' physical education classes. Modern dance, posture and body mechanics, and speed-a-way (a combination of field hockey and soccer) were highlights of the Department's program. A more intensive driver-training course for ninth graders was also added.

The Industrial Arts Department expanded on the seventh and eighth level to include units in leather working and electricity.

TOP: Merrill Hunt leads an eighth chorus in one of Mr. Howell's music classes.

CENTER: Loretta Potter, Zach Cotner, and Phil Wilmot form an interested group under art instructor, Mr. Foster.

TOP RIGHT: Beware, business world. Sandy Sanford, Jackie Heller, and Marian Gorham are learning the typing essentials for personal and office use.

The 1961 Varsity football team enjoyed a six win, one loss, one tie record. The only loss was to a fired-up Handley team which scored 25 quick points with a pair of fleet-footed halfbacks. The one tie, with Herndon, was later avenged. The Mustangs played in all kinds of weather, from the hot muggy conditions in Winchester to the rain and mud of Leesburg.

J.V. Football Returns . . .

Oh! Oh! There's one more!

Ready! Hit it! Next group. Ready!.....So barked the voice of Mr. Jack Gamble as he put the Junior Varsity football squad through its paces.

For the first time in two years, George Mason had a J. V. football team. From the first scrimmage to the last game of the season, the team was trying hard. Improvement came rapidly following the shortened J.V. season, eleven players were boosted up to the varsity. Considering the problems encountered in starting anew, it was quite a successful season.

The J.V. basketball team came through with a fine season. Although hoping for the district title, the team settled for a ten win, five loss record--successful by any standards.

This excellent record is due, at least in part, to the constant attention and ability shown by Coach Sommer. The future is equally bright; with many returnees, we should have a good all-around team next year.

This Year

IT CULMINATED MANY TIMES,

DRAGGED ON TO ANOTHER CLIMAX:

A SWAMP OF HIGH SPOTS...

Be Sure To Homecome . . .

What do you mean stapled to the floor?

Bonfire...yelling, shouting, music, and mud. Parade, blowing hats and hair...borrowed cars and rented trailers (for the horse that never arrived). Game: Warrenton...we won! Staples, cardboard, Joe's Ceiling Plan and the Master Design... columnus vs. alumnus...both won.

Hurry up! I'm sinking in this mud.

"Our Town" meeting: "Congratulations, Mr. Maher!"

Our Town . . .

"Stop drooling; it'll smear."

Briar pipe, tweed coat, grey at the temples—now he just needs to learn his lines.

Biology Club President Neil Fischer lectures on adaptation, questioning which organism shows modification of behavior —plant or animal.

Butch pines for Dee.

No snow, excitement though. Christmas trees and wobbly ladders...Dance in toyland...Assembly... Santa even came! Cafeteria caroling: "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" over turkey dinner...Vacation and parties...Eleven days of freedom (in the library...)

Christmas . . .

The men in Jo's life...

Starry-eyed at the dance: "Mmmm, what deelishus punch. . . gargle. . . "

Christmas Queen and King—Dee Marks and Butch Duncan.

. . . And Babes in Toyland

Left: Steady, don't drop it
Right: Gusti's maybe?

Top right: Queen Sharron and Danny McNab
Bottom right: The animals came—two by two.

Rhythm 'n Red

Just before the moment of silence and flashbulbs...

Snow again...(we suggest that next year, in order to fool the snow gods, an erroneous date for the Sweetheart Dance be announced)...Walls decorated with red jazz...court in white, forest green, and copper...and it doesn't matter about the money.

"Echo Song," "Bois Epais," "Now is the month of Maying," "I Believe," Schubert, Brahms, Handel, spirituals, sacred, secular, humorous and pops—it's all in a year's work for the Girls' Ensemble.

A really versatile choir group: "No, Janice, you can't sing the tenor part; Nita, how did you get back to the soprano section? And you ladies on the back row right, would you kindly stop researching the values of various gum."

Howell Well We Sing

In a patriotic mood, the Choir sings "God Bless America" during the Fall Pops Concert.

Christmas—and the lovliest music of the season comes from Mr. Howell's group

A female Toscanini—Judy Bauers directs the combined chorus at Thanksgiving

The Mustand Bang

"Mmmmm...flavor straws."

"The band room is on fire."
"I told you all those papers....."

Band Officers: Jay Hanke, Treasurer; David Forbes, Vice-President; Anne Herfindahl, President; Ross Armstrong, Librarian; Claudie Vander Heuvel, Secretary; George Phillip, Band Manager: "Don't mean to horn in..."

The band plays at City Hall in All-American City ceremonies. All members cleaned their shoes in honor of spring.

Serious music students rehearse. Wouldn't Beethoven be proud!

Sheesh! This is the twelfth tim we've been over this.

O. K. gang, let's take it from the top.

Where'd the E flat go?

Mason's Musical Marvels

Ten Top Twirlers

Majority of Majorettes bravely withstand nostalgia of bemedaled banner. . .

Star-Spangled Back Scratchers

Tuesday, February 20, 1962: Staring into Space

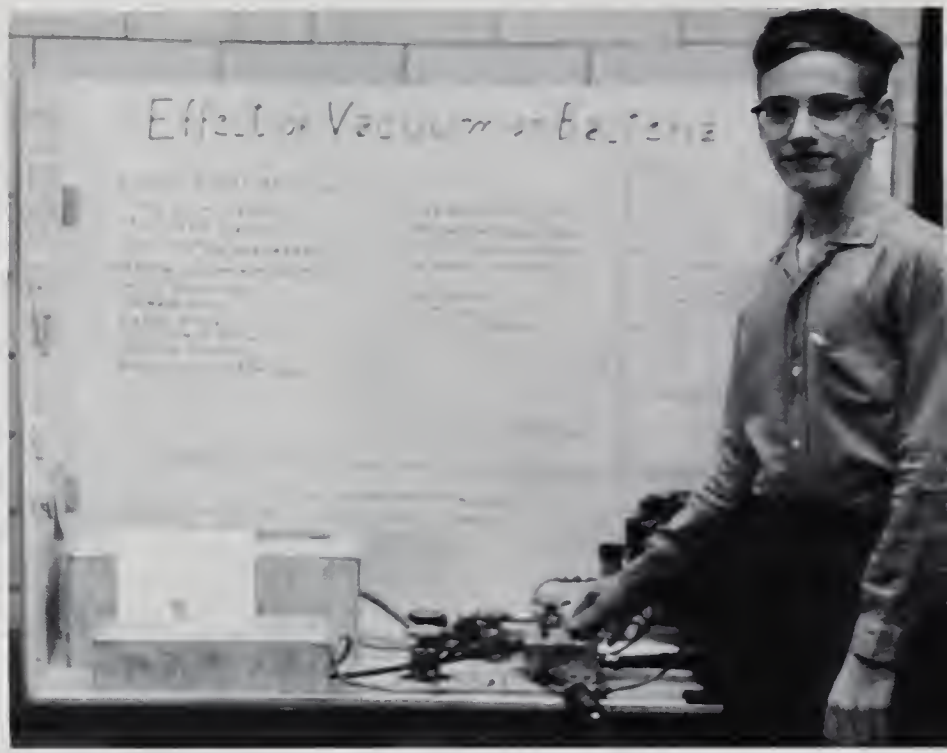
With precision, direction, it will land in the teachers' parking lot.

It took two years and 3 1/2 boxes of tinker toys.

Come To . . .

"Egad, I'll never eat chocolate again."

Michael Cone—1962 First Place Winner: "I have the cleanest bacteria in town."



Colonel Glenn helped spark a feeling for conquering forces and mechanisms...then, for science students, the Night Before: those terrible lonely moments with a Magic Marker. No more tables in the classrooms..."Everybody's down in the gym..."

. . . The Fair

View of an unpurturbed crowd (obviously used to living in the Space Age) as another Navy missle goes off unexpectedly.

The first day of Spring happened about five times this year and was usually a prelude to snow... but the faithful kept waiting and kept taking off their shoes...

"Et tu, Kelly!": Mr. Layton's nature walk gang obeys the call of the wild (and a near-by photographer...)

Hello, Spring!

Kathy Kelly
Prom Queen
1962

What to say about the last Evening... Prom flavor has been described too many times... Remember smells, strange skys, the dress she wore, the car that took you there... that's enough.

Goodbye, Everything . . .

Oh, pickled grasshoppers; how sweet!
